Why does Curacao face energy security issues?

Curacao faces energy security issues not only due to its reliance on imported fuels but also because of the age of its generation infrastructure. Thirty megawatts (MW) of Aqualectra's generation portfolio is beyond its expected service life and the surplus power from the RdK refinery is subject to frequent outages.

Does Curacao have a net metering program?

In 2011, Curacao launched a net metering program for distributed wind and solar generation systems.¹¹ Residential systems smaller than 10 kilowatts (kW) and commercial systems smaller than 100 kW were eligible to participate. At the same time, large commercial customers could apply for a feed-in tariff for systems up to 1 MW in size.

Does Curacao need electricity?

Like many island nations, Curacao is highly dependent on imported fossil fuels (more than 95% of the island's electricity is generated using petroleum-based fuels), leaving it vulnerable to global oil price fluctuations that directly impact the cost of electricity.

Why does Curacao use wind energy?

Curacao's long history with wind energy has provided it with valuable experience in integrating variable energy resources into the electrical system while also demonstrating the value of avoiding petroleum-based electricity generation.

How many wind turbines are there in Curacao?

Curacao features two of the oldest but most productive wind energy installations in the Caribbean. The first installation, a 12-turbine, 3-MW facility, was placed in service at Tera Kora in 1993.¹⁵ This was followed by an 18-turbine, 9-MW installation at Playa Kanoa in 2000.
