Is itechworld a good battery company?

I haven't got an iTechWorld battery but I recently purchased a lithium battery, and during my research it appeared iTechWorld was highly regarded as a quality company. A bloke on YouTube by the name of Explore Bound has previously done a review on them, but there's a whole bunch of other videos there too.

Is itechworld a good brand?

Have purchased a number of products from itechworld and have found every one of them to be excellent and to exceed my expectations.. Excellent price, delivered quickly and works as advertised. Can not fault the generator runs out caravan air conditioner no problems at all. Also very quiet to run Show details

Did StarTrack give a refund to itechworld?

StarTrack approved a refund to ITechworld for the issues but ITechworld disappointingly wouldn't pass the refund on to me, they kept insisting that a store credit was the best they could do. Made so much worse by the same item going on sale 1 d... Read more

Does itechworld js-80 work as a spare battery?

Thank you to ITECH. The iTechWorld JS-80 works well as a spare battery (I mostly use it for charging up my cell phone), as I actually haven't as yet needed to use it as a Jumpstarter. The USB-C port is now broken when the JS-80 slid off the passenger seat when I braked, and without that I can barely use it for a substitute powerpack any more.

I'm a little confused about the state of charge with these batteries. We were camped off grid and probably for the first time I took notice of the SoC, it got down to around the 13.1v point. The manual that came with the batteries and Itech say that at this voltage the batteries are at around 85% - 90% SoC. Is this correct?

It was going to be between Itech and Renogy as I didn't want to fork out the cash Victron were charging. We lived in our van full time with 2 kids <3 years old, travelling Australia for 12 months. We pumped the air con in the desert and while camping on beaches, we boiled the kettle and used the toaster and sandwich press.
