Are solar panels a scam or a cold call?

Here are the cold calls and potential scams to avoid. More than a third of solar PV panel owners in our recent survey told us they have been cold called about their panels in the past five years. Most cold callers were trying to sell them something unnecessary, but a few owners were told something completely untrue.

Are free solar panels a scam?

Know that "free" or "no cost" solar panel offers are scams. The federal government does not install solar systems in homes for free. If you're considering whether solar energy is right for you, check out the Department of Energy's guide for homeowners and learn more. Or check out the Department of Treasury's guidance on clean energy.

Are 'free solar panel health checks' a scam?

We're regularly contacted by customers who have received an unsolicited call or letter from another company, offering them a 'free solar panel health check' or warning about their solar PV system being at risk of failing. This is a common scam.

What is a solar energy scam?

The scams vary, but here's the gist: someone claiming to be with the government or your utility company promises big savings on your utility bills from solar energy or other home improvements designed to increase energy efficiency. If you agree to the scammer's offer, it could cost you tens of thousands of dollars.

What are the most common solar scams?

One of the most prevalent solar scams involves misleading lease agreements or power purchase agreements (PPAs). While these financing options are legitimate ways to access solar energy, unethical companies may misrepresent the terms or benefits of these agreements.

How do I protect myself from solar scams?

Protecting yourself from solar scams means taking a proactive approach and following a few key strategies. One of the most effective ways to protect yourself from solar scams is to know the average cost of solar panels in your area. By researching prices, you can identify quotes that are suspiciously high or low.
