

Does Panama have solar power?

Since 2014, investments in solar and wind energy have grown markedly. Today, more than two-thirds of Panama's electricity generation comes from clean sources, primarily through the contribution of hydropower. The country also has the largest wind farm in the region, and solar power generation - although still modest - has begun to take off rapidly.

What challenges do solar and wind companies face in Panama?

Despite abundant renewable energy resources, solar and wind companies in Panama face economic challenges, given that the current power market model is based on conventional sources such as thermal and hydropower generation and does not recognise the unique operating characteristics of variable renewable energy (VRE) generation.

The ENISIN sets a goal to incorporate an energy storage capacity of 5% of the total demand, as well as a goal to exceed 20% of non-conventional renewable generation (wind and solar) by 2030. The document highlights two scenarios, one of reference and another of high penetration of renewable sources.

additional solar PV capacity and 164+ investmentsMW (82 MWh) of battery storage, increasing the renewable energy share from 58% to 69%. 2 In the case of Panama, the expansion includes solar PV and wind capacity and battery storage. Domestic transmission capacity expansion is not relevant in this case given that it is a single-node model.
